College of Architecture, Planning and Preservation (ARCH)

Bachelor's - Architecture

- Students should be able to demonstrate the ability to think critically about the role of context in design
- Students should be able to demonstrate an ability to communicate design intentions, visually and verbally.
- Students should be able to demonstrate an ability to demonstrate knowledge from the technology course sequence into the design process
- Students should demonstrate the ability to design projects that provide healthful environments while conserving resources for future generations.
- Students should demonstrate an understanding of the ethical issues underpinning the formation of professional judgement in architectural design and practice.